Dear Parents,

I was sitting here praying for your daughters as they travel home tonight and tomorrow morning from their mission trip to Peru.

These young ladies are truly remarkable Godly women who have a heart for giving and loving. I was overwhelmed by their spirit of unity. For over 20 years, I have worked with college students, and I can honestly say that I have never met a more kind and loving group of female students. During our trip, I was around every one of your daughters in large groups, small groups, and one-on-one discussions, and not once did one of them utter a single negative word about another individual, the country, the competition, the trip, or even the food. Really, I was completely amazed and impressed by their genuineness and positive outlook on life. This is a reflection of your parenting and a product of their spiritual maturity, as well as our coaches' examples and discipleship.

Thank you for entrusting your daughters to DBU. We are so blessed to have them representing our university. We are honored to serve you and your family.

Sincerely,
