DBU Celebrates Retired Faculty Members' Faithful Service to the University with Honorary Title

PROFESSOR EMERITUS

Dallas Baptist University recently named eleven individuals as Professor Emeritus for their service to the University and its students. The title is an honor reserved only for faculty members who have served at the University for 20 years or longer. It is only for those who have been recommended by the dean of their college, the provost, and the president of DBU. Likewise, they must also be approved by the Board of Trustees.

The University held a special luncheon for the selected faculty members, where the title Professor Emeritus was bestowed upon them. Among those named to this group were Dr. Sylvia Artmann (25 years in the Dorothy M. Bush College of Education), Dr. Raynal Barber (28 years in the English Department), Dr. William Bell (39 years in the Mary C. Crowley College of Christian Faith), Dr. Lloyd DuBois (20 years in the Psychology Department), Dr. David Fletcher (41 years in the Mary C. Crowley College of Christian Faith), Dr. Chris Jordan (21 years in the Chemistry Department), Dr. Allen Powell (32 years in the English Department), Dr. Ron Smiles (20 years in the College of Business), and Dr. Gary Starnes (36 years in the History Department). Dr. Tim Trammell and Dr. Weldon Estes, who both retired this year after over 40 years of service in the Mary C. Crowley College of Christian Faith, were also installed as Professor Emeritus.

"We were so privileged to be able to honor each one of these retired faculty members with this special Professor Emeritus recognition," expressed Dr. Gary Cook, DBU president. "They have given so much of themselves in service to the Lord here at DBU, and we are very grateful to each one of them."
